

Woodstock Chimes® Shine Brighter Than Ever with New Aloha Solar Chime™
Solar-powered light illuminates as the sun sets, creating ambiance for an outdoor living area

SHOKAN, N.Y., June 15, 2017 – Woodstock Chimes, the leading manufacturer of musically tuned windchimes, has added a touch of magic to its outdoor living and home décor offerings by adding a solar-powered light option to its popular Aloha Chimes. The new Aloha Solar Chime, available in Purple Passion (ACSP) and Natural (ACSN), uses rechargeable batteries to store energy from sunlight and release it as the sun sets, creating soft, ambient lighting for summer evenings. The company’s Capiz Solar Chimes use the same technology and have been customer favorites for years. Aloha Chimes without the solar-powered light will remain in the line. The Aloha Solar Chime is part of nearly 60 new product introductions for summer 2017 that can be seen at the upcoming gift shows in Atlanta, Dallas and Las Vegas.

A bamboo sleeve with decorative cutouts surrounds the chime and adds a hint of the tropics, while letting just the right amount of light to shine through. Tuned the opening notes of Amazing Grace, of one of Woodstock Chimes’ most popular tunings, the chime measures 28 inches in overall length and features four silver aluminum tubes. In addition to the usual hangtag describing the product, a larger second hangtag explains the solar light feature to customers. It comes ready to give in a gift box and retails for $50.

“The new Aloha Solar Chime combines elements from two of our best-selling chimes and makes use of green energy, which is a natural for us,” said Garry Kvistad, founder and owner of Woodstock Chimes and a GRAMMY® Award-winning musician. “It’s as beautiful by night as it is by day, and we think our customers will love the atmosphere it creates.”
