Woodstock Chimes® Hits a Grand Slam with New Take Me Out to the Ball Game Chime™

Company's newest musically tuned chime tuned to the opening notes of beloved song

SHOKAN, N.Y., June 1, 2017 – In the fall of 2016, Garry Kvistad, a GRAMMY® Award-winning musician and founder and owner of Woodstock Chimes, the leading manufacturer of musically tuned windchimes, finally witnessed something he had been waiting for his entire life. An Illinois native, Garry watched his beloved Chicago Cubs finally win their first World Series in 108 years. In reflecting on that accomplishment—the end of the Curse of the Billy Goat, the players past and present, the calls of legendary Cubs’ announcer Harry Caray, and the singing of “Take Me Out to the Ball Game” during the seventh-inning stretch at Wrigley Field—Garry wanted to contribute to the celebration as only he could, with a windchime tuned to the opening notes of “Take Me Out to the Ball Game.” The new Take Me Out to the Ball Game Chime is one of nearly 60 of the company’s summer 2017 new product introductions that can be seen at the upcoming gift shows in Atlanta, Dallas and Las Vegas.

“‘Take Me Out to the Ball Game’ is an iconic summer song no matter which team you root for,” said Kvistad. “We constantly brainstorm new products and try to offer the best possible selection for our customers. While sitting amongst the crowd at Wrigley Field last fall, I was inspired to develop a new chime with an appeal that is as diverse as the game of baseball is today. We hope it’s a home run for our retailers.”

Made of cherry finish ash wood, the chime’s windcatcher has an image of a baseball silk-screened on it. The windcatcher is also easily removable, so consumers can customize it with a special message or date by taking it to a local silk-screening or engraving shop. The new chime measures 27 inches in overall length and features seven silver aluminum tubes. Retailing for $48, the chime comes ready to give in a kraft gift box.
